

PRESS RELEASE

AGYA PM 2/2025; 7 May 2025

Arab-German Young Academy of Sciences and Humanities (AGYA)

AGYA Annual Spring Conference 2025 in Aachen

Navigating the Future through Research Cooperation

The Arab-German Young Academy of Sciences and Humanities (AGYA) offers fresh perspectives on the future of international science, research, and innovation.

AGYA is pleased to invite you to a prestigious public evening event offering the opportunity to connect and exchange with high-ranking Arab and German scholars on the internationalisation of higher education with a focus on German-Emirati research collaboration. The event takes place on 14 May 2025 at La Fabrik in the historic city of Aachen, where AGYA is holding its Annual Conference.

This exclusive gathering brings together distinguished experts from Germany and 18 Arab countries to explore innovative models of scientific collaboration. Through targeted discussion topics, speakers will explore how changing global research dynamics require new frameworks for collaboration and innovative approaches to improve societal impact. Moreover, they will compare and discuss advantages of inter- and transdisciplinary research models.

Particular attention will be given to critical challenges including transferability of research results, academic-industrial knowledge production, and evolving funding landscapes. Together, the distinguished guests will chart pathways toward more effective, impactful, and sustainable Arab-German research cooperation capable of addressing complex global challenges.

The evening will conclude with a networking dinner, offering attendees a valuable opportunity to connect with high-ranking stakeholders in academia and research cooperation.
